There was a large attendance at the services and there were many beautiful floral tributes. Six sons of the deceased acted as pall bearers and the interment was made in the North Ogden cemetery.

FIRE DAMAGES FACTORY AND HOMES

Damages estimated at $3,500 resulted at 2 o'clock this afternoon when fire of unknown origin destroyed the rear of the building occupied by the Crystal Bottling Works at 214 Washington avenue, badly damaged the roof of the residences of John Elkins, 210 Washington avenue, and Albert Ellis, 218 Washington avenue.

In addition, V. Lobello, who occupies the Elkins' residence, declares his furniture is damaged to the extent of $500, while members of the Kreiner family, occupying the Ellis residence, estimate they are damaged to the same amount.

At a late hour this afternoon Ellis stated that the damage resulting to his residence and the bottling works' building owned by him would total $1500 with but little insurance. Elkins figured his loss at $1000, his insurance policy having expired a few days ago. The bottling works' building and the Ellis' residence are of frame construction and blazed like so much tinder while the roof of the Elkins' house gave the firemen much trouble.

Although a force of men were at work in the Crystal factory and there were other people about, the blaze had assumed a good start before the flames were discovered.

Gus Braun, one of the proprietors of the bottling works, was the first to notice the fire and at that time the rear of the plant seemed to be a mass of flames.

Elkins, who was sitting in front of his residence, discovered the fire at about the same time.

Before the alarm was received at the fire station, the smoke of the burning frame buildings was observed by the firemen in front of the station. One man had just remarked that they would receive an alarm soon, when the call came in.

In the meantime, employees of the bottling works tried to save the two residences on each side of the factory by pouring water on the roofs.

With such a big start, the firemen worked at a great disadvantage. Apparatus and men from both stations were on the job and the men bravely faced the terrific heat. While one squad fought the center of the fire, others climbed on the roofs of the residences and fought the flames that were eating into the houses. It was about 40 minutes before the last spark was extinguished.

Those who were working in the bottling works declare the blaze originated on the north side of the fence separating the two buildings but Lobello and Elkins are quite positive that the blaze came from the rear building of the bottling works.

The rumor was spread that boys of the neighborhood built a bonfire and then went about their play forgetting the fire.

SUDDEN DEATH OF STEPHEN SPAUN
Stephen Spaun died at the Dee hospital this afternoon at 2 o'clock of appendicitis after a brief illness. He deceased was 21 years of age and unmarried. He was a member of the local Musicians' union No. 397. During the past winter he was a member of the Ogden theatre orchestra.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

"Better Than The Circus"

"I saw your float in the parade," said a customer today, "but I believe you've got a better show than Ringling's, at any rate it is considerably more profitable 'show' to attend." And really it is a good deal like a big side show—this Rummage Sale. Every table has its unusual attraction. The store has been crowded every hour since the doors opened—regular "circus crowds." And, although the crowds have carried away hundreds of bargains, the stock still seems untouched. Almost every hour crate loads of new bargains are added from some department and the attractions are as good as at first.

We opened this morning at 10 o'clock, with everything in readiness for another "big day."

The boss started for New York yesterday and the last thing he said to me was, "Don't you dare bring any of that stock back"—and I won't.

"I'm coming down tomorrow with a clothes basket and a dollar," said one customer today—and that's not a bad idea.

Concrete walls for the basement of the new Peery block on Hudson avenue, near Twenty-fourth street, have been finished and brick masons will soon be at work.

The H. L. White structure on Washington avenue, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets, has been advanced to permit the use of the first floor for business purposes. The Old Fellows hall, which is on the second floor, will be ready for use in a short time.

PRISONER GETS OUT OF THE CITY JAIL

When the jailer opened the doors on the upper floor of the city jail this morning, to permit the lodgers, those unfortunate who had no money to procure beds in rooming houses, to go out, a man without a hat or a coat climbed down the steel steps with three others and was released with the others after the desk sergeant had checked them.

A few hours later, at 10 o'clock, when Clerk J. N. Fulton read the name William Adams from the complaint, he held no one who answered to the name and a search in the jail cells failed to find the missing prisoner.

F. C. Shumaker, a Southern Pacific railroad officer, had arrested Adams last night following complaints from his relatives that he had threatened to kill them, so he made inquiries about the jail and found that the man without a coat or hat was Adams. He had been placed in the upper cells with the lodgers, as Adams is an Ogden man. Learning that the men around him were there of their own accord, he took advantage of the change in shifts and passed himself off as a lodger.

When Shumaker told the story of the arrest of Adams and the circumstances, all patrolmen and sergeants on the streets were notified to bring him in when found.

According to Shumaker, he and another watchman were in the vicinity of Twenty-seventh street and the railroad tracks late last night when a woman came running from a house, at 2777 Pacific avenue, screaming "murder."

The two watchmen hurried to the house and found Adams drunk, and with a knife in his hand. The man was placed under arrest, but he fought and told Shumaker that, if he were placed in jail, he would kill the railroad officer as soon as he got out. So hard did the man fight that the handcuffs could be placed on one wrist only. He was in that condition when Patrolman Marlin arrived with the patrol and took him in the city jail.

Shumaker stated that Adams has threatened to kill him a number of times and that the relatives of the fellow, including his wife, desire that her husband be given a long sentence, as she is afraid of him when he is drinking.

RED HOT RIVET STRIKES AN OGDENITE

Henry T. Attwood, a musician residing at 2113 Lincoln avenue, is confined to his home, suffering of a nervous shock and partially paralyzed limbs as a result of being struck on the spine by a red hot rivet falling from the eighth story of the Eccles building yesterday afternoon.

Although the attending physician does not fear a serious outcome, he will be unable to follow his profession for some time, owing to the inability to move his fingers with ease.

Attwood was walking down Twenty-fourth street and was near the gutter opposite the entrance to the Commercial National bank when the rivet, which was to have been caught in a bucket by the riveter at work on the eighth man and missing Attwood's head by a fraction of an inch, struck him between the shoulder blades, the hot rivet burning an imprint in Attwood's coat. The missile bounded into the street and was picked up 60 feet from where the musician was standing.

As the rivet weighed 11 ounces and fell from so great a height, those who were near the scene of the accident declare that Attwood would have been killed had it struck him on the head.

CANNERIES ARE RUNNING ON FRUITS

With 200 employees in the Craig canning factory at Five Points, a number in the North Ogden canning factories and large forces in other factories, at work on early products or getting the machinery ready for a heavy tomato season, the present canning season promises to be a most successful one.

At the Craig factory, apricots and string beans are being canned. Information secured from the factory today is to the effect that the apricots are of an extra high quality and there is a good supply while the string bean season is at its height.

Cherries have also been canned.

Upon the beginning of the tomato season in about two weeks, all canning forces will be increased.

Since the plant of the Utah Canning company at Twenty-ninth street and Pacific avenue was remodeled into a catsup factory almost exclusively, the company will can tomatoes at factory No. 2 in North Ogden. Reports from there are to the effect that the crop at present looks better than at any time within the last few years and an excellent supply is promised.

It is believed that the tomato season will be on in earnest about September, although present indications point to a fair supply by August 15.

From all parts of the county came reports to the effect that the tomato fields are in an excellent condition and, unless early frosts occur, the factories will be supplied with products of such quality that the Utah tomatoes sent away by the carload in cans will secure an even better reputation than they have gained in the past.

THREE BOYS IN POLICE COURT TODAY

After such a busy day as Judge Reeder had yesterday the small docket this morning was a great contrast. Had it not been for eight alleged vagrants brought over from the county jail to be tried the courtroom would have been almost deserted.

Among the eight, contributed by the sheriff there were only 17 years old, and they were promptly turned over to the juvenile authorities to be dealt with.

All pleaded guilty to vagrancy

FORESTER HAS RETURNED HOME

District Forester E. A. Sherman has returned from a trip of inspection to Jarbridge, Nev.

Mr. Sherman states that certain mining claims have been filed on ground that has been occupied by the forest ranger at Jarbridge as a station and that the locators have contended that the ranger should move. The forester says that the ranger has the first right to the premises, but if mineral of importance is discovered the forest service would not undertake to hold the land solely for the ranger's use. The parties claim the ground for placer mining.

Jarbridge is very quiet, Mr. Sherman says, and there does not appear to be much mining going on there at this time.

For two weeks Dan Ensign has been selling reservations and making arrangements, but practically all those contemplating making the trip signed up last night or today.

The tourist guide on the excursion will be W. J. Dallimore. Although was reported that Dan Ensign would take the trip in the capacity of guide, he stated today that he had no intention of going this season as business matters require his attention at home. WORLD'S MARKETS

Chicago Grain.
Chicago, Aug. 5.—General sales on an advance turned the corn market today sharply down grade. Continued dry weather gave strength to prices at first, but a prediction of showers in some sections had the effect of heavily increasing the selling pressure, and trading was on a large scale. Opening figures ranged from 1-4 to 7-8c higher. September, which started at 70 to 70 1-4c, a gain of 1-4 to 5-8c, fell to 69c.

Wheat broke under large sales to a few prominent houses. Cables were indifferent and support poor. September opened unchanged to 1-8c lower at 87 3-8 to 87 1-2c, touched 87 1-2 to 87 5-8c, and dropped to 86 3-4c.

Larger long unloading more. September started 1-4 to 1-2c higher at 42 3-8 to 42 5-8c, but reached 41 7-8c.

Packers buying lifted provisions. First transactions varied from 21-1/2c lower to 5¢ 7-1-2, with September options as follows:

Lard, $11.37 1-2 to $11.40.
Ribs, $11.22 1-2.

Corn—Rain at a few points and less aggressiveness on the part of buyers prevented more than a moderate rally. The close was nervous, with September 3-8 to 5-8c net lower at 69 1-4 to 69 1-2c.

Wheat—A further setback, accompanied an increase in the world's available supply total. The close was steady, at 86 1-8 to 86 1-4c for September, a net loss of 1-14 to 1-8c.
